WILMINGTON'S JEAN HARRIS: gives her daughter Amy, 10, some pointers on playing the violin. Harris has an avid love of violin repair and has turned her love into a business venture. (Frank Amato photo)

Harris & Sons

From family fun to family business

By CHARLOTTE COOPER

WILMINGTON - "I knew nothing about violins, just a mother trying to help her son," said Jean Harris, of Harris & Sons. "We didn't have much money at the time. I picked up these two instruments at $50 a piece."

They've been in business since 1996 and just received a contract from a neighboring school system for repair their fleet of fifteen cellos.

In 1995, the Harris family happened to watch a violin contest on a PBS station where youngsters were playing against each other. "I think Rick was 13," Mrs. Harris said. At the time, she had three sons and two daughters, all adopted special needs children, and she was looking for music lessons to augment the home schooling curriculum. "We watched these 13 year olds play [the fiddle]. He was fascinated that this 13 year old boy was fiddling. He said that that would be really cool. I knew he could listen to the music," Mrs. Harris said. Their next step was to find a school for lessons.

"It was very hard to find a fiddle teacher," Mrs. Harris said that when she did find someone, the woman refused to take anyone unless they'd already had 4 years of instruction in either the traditional or Suzuki method of playing. She found a studio in another town that taught the Suzuki method and enrolled her son for lessons. "Suzuki is a method where you learn to play by ear. You learn by listening to the sounds. It's a wonderful way to learn anything because [learning] is only through positive influence," Mrs. Harris said.

"I thought that a violin was a violin," Mrs. Harris said. "But when we bought [our first] instrument and I held it, it didn't feel right. I knew my son had to play the thing," she said. "One was a 3/4 size. The teacher told me he was going to need a 3/4 size and mine was a full size." After listening to the tones, she knew they'd need to have them fixed. "I really couldn't afford it, not with paying for the private lessons. So I bought a book and a couple of tools from a discount magazine that happened to have one page of violin [parts]."

She said she bought some parts from the local music store; some touch-up varnish, which she confesses that she never should have done, a reamer for the peg holes, a sharpener to shape the pegs, lubricant, and a little drill. "I bought a couple of bridge blanks and took them home. I read my

Stevenson Memorial Park

Neighbors seek park relocation

By PAUL HAYES

WILMINGTON- Jason M. Stevenson Memorial Park has served as the Wilmington Center District's community playground since the mid-1980's.

Daniel Woodbury wants to keep it that way.

Woodbury has started a grassroots campaign to ensure Stevenson Park will be relocated to a nearby site, after the park's current location is built over during construction of the $6 million public safety building on Adelaide Street.

Woodbury submitted a petition to Selectmen last week, signed by 64 residents, requesting for Stevenson Park be located as close to its current location as possible. The petition will be formally received by Selectmen at their meeting on Monday, August 9.

"We know the Public Safety Building plans are in place, we're not trying to oppose them," Woodbury said. "But we want to ensure the park is replaced in our neighborhood."

Stevenson Park and an adjacent basketball court are located within the footprint of the 32,000 square foot public safety building, approved by the 1997 annual town meeting. The public safety building will replace the existing 4,000 square foot police station on Adelaide Street.

According to Town Manager Mike Cairra, the town has committed

Buddy Hubby sentenced

By FRANK AMATO

WILMINGTON - A 38-year-old former Wilmington Police Officer Harold "Buddy" Hubby, who plead guilty in April to one count of being an accomplice to receiving stolen property was sentenced to two to four years in state prison, suspended for five years, five years probation, 100 hours community service, an $1,100 fine, and $900 restitution. In Rockingham County Court, in Brentwood New Hampshire, Thursday, August 9th. A 10-year veteran of the Wilmington police force, Hubby resigned after pleading guilty.

"Under the circumstances, I think it was a fair deposition," said Simon Brown, Assistant Attorney General for the State of New Hampshire.

Hubby was arrested by Massachusetts State Police without incident Tuesday morning July 14th, 1998 and arraigned in Woburn District Court on fugitive from justice charges. He waived extradition and was taken by New Hampshire State Police to Rockingham County Court for arraignment. Hubby was released after posting $10,000 bail.

According to Brown, Hubby was charged in New Hampshire with five Class A felony counts of being an accomplice to receiving stolen property. Hubby was charged with having solicited Kevin Brown, 39, of Newton, NH to retain five stolen tractor trailer box trailers on his property in Newton. Brown is charged with having retained the stolen trailers. The remaining four counts against Hubby will be dismissed as part of the plea bargain.

Brown, a truck driver and mechanic was arrested without incident June 3rd 1998 by New Hampshire State Police. Brown has also plead guilty, and is awaiting sentence.

The trailers were stolen from Haverhill, Billerica, Springfield, MA and Brattleboro, VT. According to a Wilmington trucking firm, the average cost of a new trailer is between sixteen and twenty thousand dollars.

Hubby was relieved of duty without pay upon his arrest last July.

If convicted, on all five counts, Hubby could have faced a maximum of 15 years in jail on each count.

Hubby declined to comment on the case.

Town bulletin board A sign of things to come

By PAUL HAYES

WILMINGTON- Children's story teller Alicia Quintano recently joined an exclusive club.

Her July 29 appearance at the town library was the latest announcement to grace the Community Bulletin Board, located in Rotary Park alongside Route 62.

Quintano's name appeared on the bulletin board as it was formally presented by the Rotary Club to the Town of Wilmington on Thursday.

Beginning with a Rotary Club Auction announcement last fall, the bulletin board has carried congratulations to high school

THE COMMUNITY BULLETIN BOARD was formally presented from the Rotary Club to the town on Thursday, in attendance were (L to R) Public Buildings Superintendent Roger Lessard, Rotary Club President Stephen Peterson, Town Manager Mike Cairra, past Rotary President Angela Keane and Rotary Club Secretary John Vassallo. School Board vacancy

Zukas resigns

By KRISTINA FARESE

WILMINGTON - School Board Member, Brigitte Zukas handed in her letter of resignation during the last Executive Session. At the moment it is unknown who will replace her spot on the board. She has moved to New Hampshire to take a principalship at a Catholic school in Newburyport.

In her short time on the board, Zukas has made quite an impact among her fellow board members. Attorney Steven Peterson comments, "[Zukas has had] a very positive influence on the school committee. She has a vast knowledge of school committees and with that knowledge, she will be missed. She was very fun to serve with; she was a friend. She made it easy; you could ask her for advice."

Board member Barbara Breakey agrees, "I'm very sorry because she is such a great person. She had served before and now more recently. She was just a dynamic person."

Suzanne Clarkin offers, "I wish her well; she's still learning and she has a lot to offer."

Joan Duffy, another Board member, comments, "[She was] a great contribution to the board because she brought levity, shot from the hip, and was confident. She was a very smart woman and knew what she was talking about. I enjoyed working with her and know that she will be missed."

School Board Chairwoman, Suzanne Rooney, reiterates, "I've known Brigitte a long time. She's a tell-it-like-it-is person. She adds spark and she will be missed because she just told it like it was."

Rooney would like to see the position filled some time in September, giving the public as well as the Board of Selectmen enough

Police nab local woman for credit card fraud scheme

By FRANK J. AMATO
WILMINGTON - A 22 year old Benson Road woman's trip to her doctors office July 23rd turned into more than she bargained for, she found herself in handcuffs.
Linda Santos, 22, 13 Benson Road, Wilmington allegedly stole the wallet of the doctor she was seeing.
According to Wilmington Police Inspector James White, Santos was left alone in the doctors waiting area when the secretary stepped out of the reception area for a moment. Santos then allegedly stole the doctors wallet, including several credit cards, and the doctors keys.
Wilmington Police Officer Chris Dindo responded to the scene and obtained the identity of the woman from the doctor.
Inspector White then arranged a photo array to show the doctor, who immediately identified Santos.
Santos then allegedly, used the stolen credit cards at five different Wilmington businesses, and attempted to use the card at a sixth. The clerk became suspicious and refused to accept the card.
White then interviewed all of the merchants where the credit cards were used, and according to White, also identified Santos as the person

When police searched Santos after her arrest, Santos was allegedly in possession of a controlled substance, and a wallet containing cash belonging to another individual.
The investigation of the controlled substance and second wallet is on going, under the direction of White.
Santos is being charged with two counts of credit card fraud over $250, one count of credit card fraud over $250, one count of improper use of a credit card, and attempting to commit a crime, and possession of a controlled substance.

It's YOUR Money
by Joyce Brisbois

IS YOUR SPOUSE A U.S. CITIZEN?

Patriotism aside, there's a good reason for both husband and wife to be United States citizens. Noncitizen surviving spouses are not entitled to receive property tax-free under the unlimited marital deduction. Uncle Sam fears the noncitizen will take the money and run. Even jointly held property may risk being considered part of the decedent's estate. And though citizens may get unlimited tax-free gifts from their spouses during their lifetime, the noncitizen is limited to $1,000 a year.

What can you do about it? The optimum choice for most is to become an American citizen. Another option is the Qualified Domestic Trust, or Q-Dot. It permits deferral of estate taxes until the surviving spouse dies. But the Q-Dot has restrictions: the beneficiaries may receive income from the trust, free of estate taxes, but not principal. At least one trustee must be an American citizen or corporation, and there may be limits on investments.

When special circumstances demand special planning, see the tax-and-finance people at

Jackson Brothers were solid local contractors

See obituary for Leland Jackson.

WILMINGTON—Those who have been in town a while, could well be living or working in a building constructed by the Jackson Brothers—or know someone who is. Newcomers who just bought their home, built by the Jackson firm, probably had that fact clearly pointed out to them by the seller as a further incentive to buy.

In the local real estate market years ago, and today, one desirable adjective describing a home is "Jackson Built."

Something over 40 years ago, three Jackson brothers, Leland, Lionel and Frederick, arrived in Wilmington and started their building firm. The bulk of their attention was focused on the construction of homes, one at a time—no mass production for these builders. They built carefully, not hurriedly but usually on time, and all the work was done by the brothers themselves.

The Jackson Brothers managed to change the face of Wilmington. In three decades (60, 70, 80) they built hundreds of rapidly selling homes, including several subdivisions.

In the mid 70's they created a new sort of development.

In their contracting business, they needed to store and repair trucks and other equipment. Often they had nowhere they could keep the trucks without violating zoning bylaws. They observed that there was a fair number of other businessmen in town with equipment stored in their backyards.

Thus, they decided to purchase what was then known as the "Old Chipman Place" on Andover Street, where they constructed an industrial lease building. It soon housed numerous local businesses. The building, with several bays proved to be so popular that it has been expanded several times.

Eventually, inflation caused the Jackson Brothers to curtail their homebuilding activities. They could no longer build a quality house, at a price homebuyers could afford and they would never build anything but quality!

Letters To The Editor

Support for Stevenson Memorial Park

FRANK note: two missing. There seems to be no 48 Glen Road OR 16 Crest Avenue. If I could read the names, I'd have typed them anyway, 'cause some places could have been built since '97 which COULD mean I need a new book.

Dear Editor:
Following is a copy of a letter recently sent to the Wilmington Board of Selectmen:
Dear Honorable Board of Selectmen:

Under a small pine grove sets a granite post with a placard describing the area as the Jason M. Stevenson Memorial Park. We are writing this letter in response to the taking of our neighborhood park, next to the Wilmington Police Department, as land for development of the Wilmington Public Safety Building. The park is dedicated to Jason M. Stevenson, a young boy who was killed on Route 62 after being hit by an automobile a short distance away from where the park is now located. It is a park that serves the center neighborhood district with the intention to provide a safe haven for young children to walk to and play.

The citizens of Wilmington Center District fully understand the need for the new Public Safety Building. Many of the citizens who live in the area were organizers and contributors for the passing of question 1 debt exclusion. We also understand the rationale for using the location next to the Police Department. However, we also realize that our neighborhood is the location of many infrastructure changes, such as the widening of the Route 62 bridge and the expansion of the commuter rail station, that will increase the amount of traffic flow through the area.

Replacement of the park within walking distance of its current location is important to our neighborhood. It is a facility that is used by all age groups and is the only active recreational facility nearby. Replacement of this facility outside our neighborhood is not an acceptable option. We welcome the opportunity to meet with you to discuss locations and the design of a replacement neighborhood park.

We the undersigned request that you commit to the residents of the center community the replacement of this valuable asset by replacing the Stevenson Memorial Park as close to its current location as possible. Replacement of the Stevenson Park should coincide with the commencement of construction on the Public Safety facility.

Respectfully,
Daniel Woodbury,

Help the Leukemia Society of America

Dear Editor:

The "CAWS" is walking to support the Leukemia Society of America. This year the "Light The Night Leukemia Walk" will take place at Lake Quannapowitt in Wakefield, September 26. The "CAWS" (Cole/Adams/Williamson/Sullivan families) has been affected by leukemia, lymphoma, and Hodgkin's disease and is seeking public support in conquering these diseases.

Having fought these diseases firsthand and having watched others suffer along with us makes this a very personal event for the "CAWS" team. Unfortunately, far too many of our friends and families are touched by cancer which is why we are asking for support. This walk not only provides a means to help current and future cancer patients, but also gives us a chance to honor and remember the loved we have lost to cancer.

If you would like to participate in this event, please contact our team captain, Lisa Sullivan, at 978-658-2735. She will provide you with a registration form, sponsor sheet, and all the details. If you are unable to participate in the walk but would like to donate to our "CAWS," please send Lisa a check (made payable to "The Leukemia Society of America") to the following address:

Lisa Sullivan
534 Woburn Street,
Wilmington, MA 01887

Lisa can also be contacted via email at the following address: sullisoni@juno.com

If you know of anyone who may be interested in this event, please forward this message to them.

Our sincerest appreciation,
The "CAWS"

Scott McBay succeeds despite limitations

By KATE BOLAND

WILMINGTON - Last month, shortly after his 27th birthday, Scott McBay was named Residential Vice-President at U.S. Seal-Coat in Woburn. During the paving season, from early April to mid-October, Scott handles all residential cost estimates, on-site measuring, and proposal preparation. And he does it all from the customized, motorized wheelchair which has been his center of operations for the past 5 years.

On August 14, 1994, McBay was riding his motorcycle on Route 38 in Tewksbury, when he was cut off in traffic. The ensuing accident left him paralyzed from the neck down. He spent five months in University Hospital, in Boston and the next two years working with rehabilitation staff to come up with the computer technology most suited to his needs. By means of a straw control on the chair, he can turn the lights or TV on and off, and can move around where he wants to go. The chair also carries a ventilator, upon which McBay is dependent, and the whole operation runs off a battery which is recharged every night.

Ten months after Scott's accident, a good friend of his Gary Josephson, of Burlington was paralyzed, also in a motorcycle accident. This was Scott's turning point. "I was feeling sorry for myself," he admits, "but then Gary needed me." He nods thoughtfully. "Gary was my rehab."

In early 1997, Scott's family broke ground on an addition to their home and constructed an apartment which would accommodate his needs. When it came time to pave the new driveway, Scott called U.S. Seal-Coat, the paving company for which he had been working at the time of his accident, for an estimate. "They sent over the secretary with a measuring wheel and a piece of paper. I thought 'I can do that!'"

"Scott called me and asked if there was something he could do," says Mike Musto, President of U.S. Seal-Coat and Scott's former boss. "At first, I just didn't think there was anything. I knew he was a responsible guy who had a bad accident, and I wanted to help." Putting their heads together and drawing on McBay's knowledge of the business, they came up with the idea of attaching a simple measuring wheel to the wheel of the chair, enabling McBay to drive along and record the measurements. "I think we used duct tape and wire," laughs Musto. The biggest drawback, however, was McBay's need for an assistant to actually write down the measurements as he took them.

McBay approached an electrical engineer friend, who put him in touch with the Assistive Technology Department at UMass Lowell. As a class project, students designed and built the system McBay now uses. A small wheel runs off the wheelchair wheel as Scott rolls along, recording distance. The measurements are stored in a special on-board computer which will hold several jobs and more than a hundred different measurements. Later, Scott downloads the data into his home computer and, using a headset control to move the cursor and select characters, prepares the cost figures and proposals from there. "I average 8 to 12 jobs and 132 measurements a day with this technology," McBay says with satisfaction. To make the traveling from job-site to job-site easier, U.S. Seal-Coat recently provided Scott with a brand-new van, equipped with a lock-down chair lift and automatic doors. "This chair," he says, "this chair and that van are my independence."

In fact, Scott's life today is a benevolent mixture of dependence and independence, and he cherishes the support of family and friends who have contributed so much to his active life-style. Because he is ventilator-dependent, he requires someone to be with him around the clock. A team of up to 8 nurses share the daytime and evening care shifts. "They're great," he says. "I can't say enough good things about them." His parents, who are divorced, share the overnight care. His mother, Donna, lives with him in the apartment, which is attached to the home in which he grew up. His father, Fran, and stepmother, Diane, still live there. "He needed all of us,"

SCOTT McBAY DEMONSTRATES the use of a headset device that he uses to operate the mouse on his computer. McBay then uses one of two straws to "click" the mouse. The device proves invaluable to McBay as he uses his computer to prepare estimates for potential customers. (Frank Amato photo)

Fran says simply. It is his parents' part in the timetable which allows him to live at home. "Unfortunately, they (doctors) feel that if you require 24-hour care, you're better off in a hospital."

In the winter after his accident, McBay's sister organized a fund-raiser which raised $11,000 toward his expenses. Part of this money was used to purchase a generator, since a power outage would affect the ventilator machinery.

Scott realizes that he is more fortunate than many people with disabilities as serious as his. He spends up to 16 hours a day in his wheelchair, without the complications that many others have. Blood pressure, bladder problems, and susceptibility to skin problems can limit the amount of time a quadriplegic can bear sitting down. "I have a good cushion, and the chair reclines to relieve pressure. I can shift around."

Scott's other love is designing web sites, and the winter months give him the time to devote to this second career. "Come visit me, www.us-sealcoat.com," he says with a chuckle.

When the paving season ends in early October, Scott shifts his focus to helping others who, like his friend Gary, need him. "Most spinal injuries happen in summer, and by late fall they're ready to talk to me." As a peer counselor for the National Spinal Cord Injury Foundation, he is involved with helping disabled people look ahead to their own futures. Scott himself is living proof that with the right combination of love, support, imagination, and determination, they too have the power to survive disaster and regain a life worth living.

Stevenson Memorial Park Neighbors seek park relocation ted to relocating the park, and said two locations, Rotary Park and the former Whitfield School, are being eyed as the park's new home.

Woodbury said Rotary Park's proximity to the area neighborhoods, and to the playground's former location, make it an ideal location.

"I see Rotary Park as the only place in the area," Woodbury said. "What better place [for a park] than next to a police and fire station?"

Caira also said the park could be moved to the Whitfield School, currently home to the Public Buildings Department.

Located on Route 62 a mile east of the current Stevenson Park, the Whitfield School site was pegged for redevelopment by a town space-needs study conducted a few years ago.

"I hope we'll have some kind of [relocation] plan in conjunction with the town budget process," Caira said. "Hopefully by the end of the year."

The Stevenson Park relocation is not included in the public safety building budget, and would be funded by the town.

According to Woodbury, Stevenson Park is important to the Wilmington center district because it is the only park within walking distance of center neighborhoods.

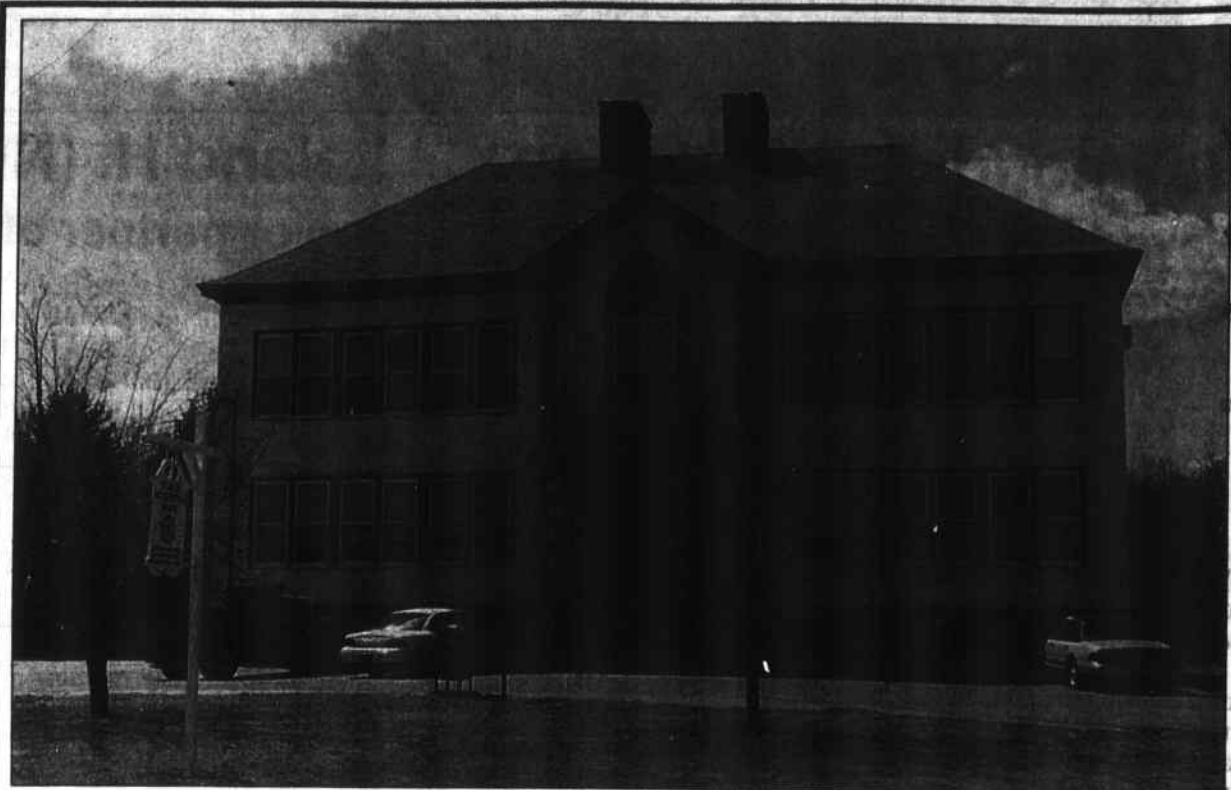

Center area residents would have to drive to the next closest playgrounds at the Wildwood, Shawsheen and Woburn Street schools. Parks located nearby

Stevenson Park, Rotary Park and the high school athletic fields, do not provide recreational equipment that caters to toddlers and young children.

"Toddlers don't play baseball and football," Woodbury said. "There are no swingsets or slides at the high school [or Rotary Park]."

James M. Stevenson was killed on July 2, 1985, at the age of 12, while riding his bike along Route 62. A car driven by an 18 year old Tewksbury resident broadsided Stevenson. The car was reportedly travelling 62 miles per hour at the time of the accident.

Stevenson was taken by Life Flight from the Brown's Crossing pumping station to the Mass. Medical Center in Worcester, where he died.

WHITFIELD SCHOOL: Current site of the Public Buildings Dept. and possible site of a new Stevenson Memorial Park.

Macauley's Eagle soars in competition

By PAUL HAYES

TEWKSBURY - Dorothy "Dottie" Macauley was driving her souped up AMC Eagle SX/4 along an Indiana highway in July, when another car began to slowly pull up beside her.

The driver, an adolescent male, stared at Macauley's car.

First at the personalized license plates, and dual chrome exhaust pipes; then at the rear side windows engraved with an eagle hovering above a series of mountains and waterfalls.

The driver was so captivated by Macauley's car, that he nearly crossed over the highway median strip, and Macauley loved every minute of it.

"I get the biggest kick out of peoples faces, as they watch me drive down the street," Macauley said.

Macauley's Eagle SX/4 has garnered numerous awards, most recently a silver medal at the national American Motor Owners Association (AMO) motor show, held July 17-19 in Saint Louis, MO.

On the way back from Saint Louis, the car's odometer reset at 100,000 miles as Macauley crossed the Ozark Mountains in West Virginia. The miles indicate the long journey Macauley and her car have travelled since a cavity led her to her car.

In 1981, Macauley bought the AMC Eagle SX/4 as a utility car, something to get her from point A to point B. She settled on the car after a trip to her dentist's office.

Torn between a Trans-Am and the Eagle, Macauley was flipping through a magazine as she sat in the dentist's office, waiting to get a filling. She saw an ad for the Eagle, and after the appointment, she took the ad to a dealer and said "this is what I want."

The laminated ad remains in her possession today.

Macauley ordered the car, and waited two months before she could drive home the $10,000 vehicle, with no radio. Macauley didn't want the AMC factory stereo system.

For the next ten years, the Eagle served as reliable transportation, and Macauley poured her energies into her primary passion, training and showing her shepherd dogs. Her last dog Shadow, who died last month, was a champion obedience trained dog nationally and in Canada.

By 1991, after a decade of driving, the Eagle looked bad and smelled worse.

Then Macauley took the car off the road, intending to rebuild it into a show car. For her day to day driving she bought a new car, one that provided a sharp contrast to the four wheel drive, wide bodied, vintage Eagle.

She bought a Hyundai Excel. "It was easier on gas," Macauley said, and then noting the extravagance of her Eagle added "and no one wants to steal a Hyundai."

Macauley learned the ins-and-outs of car maintenance while repairing the car, and she customized and detailed the car using examples collected from car shows, which she incorporated with her own ideas.

"It was trial and error," Macauley said.

She first brought the Eagle to local car shows, including the regular show in the parking lot behind the Piccadilly Pub on Route 38. Then at a car show in Littleton, she met fellow AMC owner Jim Peloquin of Leominster who introduced her to the Connecticut AMC owners club.

That proved to be Macauley's launch off point. She joined the owners club in 1994, and by 1996 her Eagle was named the best custom AMC vehicle in New England, an award she has won every year since.

Although the president of the Conn. AMC owners club is a woman, Macauley acknowledged few women are directly involved in car shows, unless they are accompanying their husbands.

Macauley said men are sometimes hesitant to approach her at a car show, and will have to look at her car before they can talk to her. Whereas if a man drove the car, the other guys would walk up to him immediately, Macauley said.

"I might make them uncomfortable," Macauley said. "But for the most part we get along."

However, Macauley is less interested in women's involvement in auto shows, than she is in women learning automotive basics.

"I think women should get more involved in knowing how to repair minor things," Macauley said. "If they knew a little more about cars, they wouldn't get [ripped off] by mechanics so often."

Macauley is nearly through refurbishing her Eagle. After a few more improvements she will effectively be finished with her Eagle, and financial constraints prevent her from buying and refurbishing a third vehicle.

She will continue to attend shows, when they are convenient to her, but she said she is not consumed by her vehicle. She will continue to bring the Eagle to the only mechanic allowed to touch it, a man Macauley simply knows as "Ray" from Charlie Boudreau's; will have the pin stripping done by Charlie Broughm of Dracut, and will have her stereo tended by Carlisma of Lowell.

Lastly, she will continue to enjoy when people's necks crane to get a glimpse of her car, although many of these necks belong to her co-workers.

Occasionally Macauley drives the hip oriental red Eagle, with its original black interior, jeweled valve stem covers, chrome mag hub caps and spinners to her day job, where she works as an administrative assistant and secretary.

"I get tired of people hounding me to see the car," Macauley said. "So I drive it to work occasionally."

Macauley and her Eagle will next appear as part of an auto show at the South Lawrence Elks club this weekend.

SCHOOL DAYS Are Here Again!

"The Dance Company" steps into town

By CHARLOTTE COOPER
WILMINGTON — Everyone knows that exercise, aerobic exercise, is necessary on a regular basis to remain healthy and keep fit. Dance is an aerobic exercise and a fun way to begin your life on a healthier journey. "The Dance Company," a new dance studio, owned and operated by 23 year old Kathleen Rooney, will be opening in September at 287A Main Street in Wilmington. It promises to show a new perspective on exercise.

"I've always wanted to open up my own studio," Kathleen said. A life-long resident of Wilmington, Kathleen has finally realized her studio dream. She will offer tap dancing, jazz dancing, modern dance and creative movement, in addition to ballet.

The American College of Sports recommends aerobic exercise at a minimum of twenty minutes three times each week. The American Heart Association recommends aerobic exercise to strengthen heart and lung. Many people who suffer from high blood pressure, a leading cause of heart disease, can help control their blood pressure through a regular program of aerobics.

"I've wanted to dance and be a dance instructor ever since I can remember," Kathleen said. At the age of four, she was already taking dance lessons. She started in ballet and moved on to other styles of dance. Tap is her favorite. Over the years, she became more involved in the nature of the dance and continued her quest to become a teacher. "You don't have to be licensed to be a dance teacher [in Massachusetts]," Kathleen said.

But she believes that in order to give her students the best instruction, you must learn as much as you can to be an instructor. "When I went to college, I learned about performing," she added.

Kathleen went to Dean Jr. College to learn more about dance and opening her own business. As a dance major, she studied the various forms of dance. She also took classes on small business management. After two years, she received her Associates Degree in Dance.

"I wasn't sure what direction I wanted to go in. I thought I'd perform for a few years first," Kathleen said. Her ambitions included auditioning for Alvin Ailey of New York City, a dance company offering a certification program in dance. "They travel all over the world," she said. She was accepted, but suffered a severe shoulder injury that prevented her from completing that dream. It was a long time before she could perform dance movements again, but she persevered.

"I taught at Patty Nichols Dance Art Center in Billerica for two years. I taught courses in tap and jazz. Jazz is like a hip hop, updated dancing to current music. Aerobic," Kathleen said. She will be taking a course for certification in aerobic exercise in early September. "It's an 8-hour course that I'll take at Ndeita Company. It's a national dance exercise company. CPR certification is also included in the course. After that, I will need re-certification every two years." She said that at the end of the course, there is a written exam that she must pass. "I've been studying the materials and before I go in, including what I'll learn that day." She also plans to take an instructor's course in kick-boxing so that she can offer an additional program at the new studio.

The different styles of dance offer a variety of exercises for both young and old. Ballet is an intricate group dance using pantomime and conventionalized movements to tell a story. Tap dance is a dance performed with sharp loud taps of the foot, toe or heel at each step. "Ballet is the foundation. Everything has its roots in ballet," said Kathleen. "Tap, jazz and modern dance movements all come from ballet."

"The various styles of dance, the movements, help children learn important motor skills." She also said it helps stretch and work muscles in adults. According to the Health Information Library, aerobic exercise such as aerobic dance, is a fun way to get fit. It combines fat-burning aerobic movements, muscle building exercises and stretching into routines that are performed to music. Many dance forms are used including jazz, tap and ballet. All ages can benefit from aerobic dance.

"I'll have creative movement classes for the kids. It's for children from the ages of 3 to 5. We use props and dance to enhance their basic motor skills. It prepares them for dance and other physical exercise later in their lives," Kathleen said. She said that it's fun for the kids. They combine movement with props and play different things. "We play musical chairs, and other fun things. It's like a game, and they have fun doing the movements," she added.

Her search for a studio actually began last summer. Kathleen chose to remain in Wilmington because she likes the community. "I know a lot of people here," she said. "I've been looking for a while. We tried to find a suitable building last summer, but we had no luck. Then my father told me about the empty building he saw recently. We rented it about three weeks ago." She said it's perfect.

"I'll be opening in September," Kathleen said. "They've got the floor finished now, and the mirrors will be up by the end of the week." Applications are currently being accepted for fall classes. "I have two already," she added. She will hold an open house the week of September 21 and students can register then as well.

The children's courses will run from September through the end of the school year in June. "There will be a recital in June. The kids really enjoy it," Kathleen said. "The adult sessions will last for 6 or 8 weeks, depending upon enrollment." She also said that registrations can be mailed out for students. For more information, she can be reached at 694-9379.

Schools focus on safety, well being of students

By PAUL HAYES
WILMINGTON/TEWKSBURY—

As school came to a close last year, gaining entrance to Wilmington High School required more than opening the door and walking in.

In the hall past the front door, a school employee sat at a desk, with self-adhesive name tags and a sign-in book. All WHS visitors were required to stop at this desk and register themselves, before proceeding to the principal's office, or another part of the school.

The creation of the registration desk coincided with the Columbine, CO high school massacre, in which two students - armed to the teeth - killed a number of students and faculty, and wounded several others.

In the wake of the Columbine incident, superintendent's everywhere felt their blood pressure rise when someone uttered the phrase "school security."

In response, schools took extra precautions, and several employed stricter measures, to ensure their school security met the "Columbine standard."

Just over three months later, summer vacation has given school officials in Tewksbury and Wilmington time to breathe, and reexamine school security. It has also allowed them to look into the root problem behind the need for school security - their student's mental health.

Tewksbury and Wilmington schools have restricted the number of available school entrances, and Tewksbury is creating a crisis team/critical response plan in conjunction with local and regional police.

Tewksbury will also run programs addressing student's well being.

"As we focus on the academic development of our youth," said Tewksbury schools superintendent Dr. Christine McGrath, "it's important we don't lose sight of our responsibility to also help them develop socially and emotionally."

Tewksbury Memorial High School will run a three part program in September with the theme "creating safe home and school environments."

The program will begin on Sept. 14, with a presentation on mental health risks in children, by Bob Macy, Director of the Community Services Program for the Department of Mental Health.

Macy will discuss how childhood behavior could lead to violent acts by adolescents and teens.

The program's second installment, on Sept. 21, features a presentation on the root causes of violent behavior, by Maria Trozzi, Director of the Good Grief Program at Children's Hospital in Boston.

Trozzi will explore the changes in society which have led to increases in particular behaviors, and will discuss strategies for parents and school personnel to deal with children with the potential for violent behavior.

The program concludes on Sept. 28 with a panel discussion on the efforts taken to provide a safe school environment, and student safety in the community.

The panel will feature members of the Tewksbury school and police departments.

Wook, got a micrometer for measuring and I played with it. I wanted to learn it the easiest way. I used my Exacto blade to trim the bridge, and I put the little notches for the strings." "It would have cost me well over $100 to have the work done," Mrs. Harris said. She showed the mended violins to their music instructor and was complemented on her reconstruction efforts. "It cost me a few dollars for a bridge, about $25 for one part, probably $18 for another, and $29 for the book," she said. Of course, that doesn't take into account the numerous hours she spent working on the instruments. "I had two instruments that were playable. They went from $50 instruments, to instruments worth at least $250 when they were finished." She says that she still has a lot to learn about repair work, but that it will be fun.

"Then I needed to do another repair," Mrs. Harris said she broke a string and went to the musical music store and found that it went out of business. "I didn't know what I would do." She said to it was then that she started thinking about a business venture. "We were home schooling at the time and my boys needed to transition into life skills." She said that, as a family, they sat down and discussed what the next steps would be.

Mrs. Harris said that the family unanimously chose to use monies set aside for college education to open the business. "We wondered what we'd go into business doing. We thought about all kinds of things and most weren't permanent. We had a criteria: it had to be something in which everyone could participate in some way, it had to teach life skills and it had to be a blessing to our community. We wanted our children, even though they have special needs, to be socially and verbally interactive."

She said that she expressed her frustration over the broken string and loss of the local music store one night at dinner. It was then they chose the course of their business venture. "We started this venture purely as a teaching event for the [children]. We wanted them to learn business skills," Mrs. Harris said. She discovered that the community really needed a small business that could supply things like strings, shoulder rests, chin rests, music stands, and other accessories for string instruments, and eventually rental instruments. She said that they went about the licensing process and began their business in 1996.

"We could teach the boys how to keep invoices, write receipts, fill out applications for their license. We didn't expect this to do any thing except teach. We expected to do it for one to three years and decided if it doesn't make a profit in three years, we'll close, because by three years we will have learned what we needed," Mrs. Harris said. She said that within the first year they rented out six instruments to students and made no profit. She also said that her husband, and even her relatives, used every holiday opportunity to get her tools, books and other things for the new venture.

Her desire to do her best to teach her children, to continually improve upon her repair work and her love for the violin helped her business grow. "We didn't want to grow big, so we didn't advertise. We grew through word-of-mouth. For the first year I had competition, I had six rentals. The second year I had twelve rentals. We've just finished our third year with 36 rentals. I have a total of 70 instruments now. It's gotten to the point where I buy them and they're basically not together: they're glued, but need setup work to sound and play properly," Mrs. Harris said. She has since loved attending the Violin Craftsmanship Institute at the University of New Hampshire where she learned basic repair and maintenance last year and has just returned home from three weeks of intermediate repair and varnish and touchup classes taught by a master violin maker.

Now she stays in business because she enjoys helping the local string students and their parents. "I enjoy spending extra time helping a parent and their budding musician feel comfortable with their instrument which might mean changing a chin rest or finding just the right shoulder rest. You can see it in their face when we get the right."

She charges between $84 and $135.50 for instrument rental for a school year. She said she's also rented to adults. "One came back and bought her instrument." She continues to improve her skills both in child rearing and violin repair, and from the looks of it, she's doing well in both. For more information call 658-2479.

Town bulletin board A sign of things to come brassports team, advertised town meeting, announced festivities on town common, and warned of town center traffic.

"[The bulletin board] enables the town to publicize community events of significant interest," said Town Manager Mike Cairra. Cairra determines what messages are posted, and has had to turn down some suggestions that were not topical or of significant interest to Wilmington residents.

"I've denied requests from other towns," Cairra said. "To advertise out of town events."

The sign, like Rotary Park, is maintained jointly by the Rotary Club and the town. The Rotary Club paid for the bulletin board (constructed by a Rotary Club member) through donations, and their November Auction.

The Rotary Club public service organization, with 55 members locally and over 2 million members in every nation in world. They contribute $14,000 in scholarships to Wilmington High School students, maintain Rotary Park in conjunction with the town, run a dinner during the Fourth of July celebration, and internationally the organization operate an ongoing program to inoculate all of the world's children inoculated for polio, a task that is nearly 7/8 complete.

Pan Mass Challenge

Twelve locals to ride 192 miles

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Twelve locals from Wilmington and Tewksbury will strap on their helmets this weekend and ride from Sturbridge Ma., to Provincetown in a two-day 192 mile bike-a-thon to help raise money for the Jimmy Fund/Dana Farber Institute in the 19th annual Pan Mass Challenge (PMC).

This two day event consists of over 2,500 riders, and 1,700 volunteers, who last year raised 6.7 million dollars that was dedicated to research to find a cure for children who are battling cancer.

Wilmington native Mickey Rooney and Tewksbury native Sue Hendee—the Wilmington High girl's soccer coach—are two veterans in this race, while several other locals are making their first ride, all to be a part of trying to eliminate the deadly disease that has taken so many lives.

"I started in 1983 when a small group of us got together to do it," said Rooney. "It started in 1980 when just a few people did it, and now it has grown into 2,500 riders. I had heard about it back then, and I backed off for a few years, but when my mother died and then another friend of mine had died from cancer I got involved that way."

"It's a great feeling, more of a selfish feeling, but you have the feeling of helping someone else. It's a yearly event that I look forward to every year."

Rooney—who every two weeks gives blood plate donors, which is blood taken out from his arm by a machine that takes the plates away returning the blood, so that cancer patients' plates can be given back to them since they lose so many in chemotherapy—says he knows what is coming in his 12th race.

"I ride like three or four days a week around one hundred to one hundred and fifty miles a week. This race is a lot of fun, I like the camaraderie," said Rooney.

Last year Rooney raised $3,800, already this year he has raised $4,300 becoming what the PMC calls a Heavy Hitter, one who raises double the amount of the $1,300 minimum.

Another Heavy Hitter is Hendee. The thirty-nine year-old soccer coach at WHS, said this is her ninth year riding and she got involved two years after he mother passed away with breast cancer.

"It's a cause that is certainly worth doing because it raises that kind of money for such great organizations," said Hendee. "Everyone there is very nice, they all have stories behind why they are riding and both the Jimmy Fund and Dana Farber Institute are terrific organizations who are working very hard to find a cure."

Hendee has raised about $2,500 right now and over the last eight years has raised about $12,000.

"It's definitely an enjoyable weekend, it's an inspirational one and its very emotional. I always look forward to it."

Cynthia Sullivan, 49, of Wilmington, will be participating for the first time, and already she is a Heavy Hitter raising over $2,600. She said she has participated in Boston Marathons and a bicycle ride for Multiple Sclerosis several years ago so she knows what to expect.

"I have an idea of what to expect and I'm figuring the first day will be fun and the second day will be a struggle," she said. "I've been riding two or three times a week now in this hot and humid weather and this weekend isn't supposed to be that bad, so hopefully I'll feel great."

Sullivan said she got involved celebrating her sister in law's victory over cancer, and in memory of her brother-in-law who recently passed.

"That's what motivates everyone," she said. "Everyone knows of someone who has cancer or died from it or who had it themselves and that's what motivates us to do it."

Other Wilmington locals include Dan and Patrice McGinness, whose story was told in this newspaper last year, as well as Steven Taylor, a 41-year-old resident. As for locals from Tewksbury besides Hendee, they include husband and wife tandems Michel and Charlotte Lapierre, David and Janet Frawley, and David Winthrop.

If you would like to donate to the Pan Mass Challenge to help find a cure for cancer, you may do so by sending a check made out to: Pan Mass Challenge/Jimmy Fund, and mail it to Mickey Rooney (or any of the other locals residents on their behalves) 287 Chestnut Street, Wilmington, MA. 01887.

Wilmington resident Mickey Rooney will be one of the locals participating in this weekend's PAN Mass Challenge.

Girls soccer team falls to Masco

By JEFF NAZZARO
Sports Correspondent

It amounted to little more than a scrimmage and the final score, 8 or 9 to 3 hardly mattered, nor did the fact that Wilmington's biggest Cape Ann League nemesis, Masconomet, had the higher total when the two squads met last Thursday evening at the Woburn Street School. This was summer high school soccer, a time to have a little fun, sharpen skills, and get in shape for the real high school season ahead.

The game itself played out in marked informality. Clad in mismatched uniforms of Masco red and Wilmington navy, the teams battled in the midsummer heat on a field shortened by some 25 yards by the placing of unplayable, straw-like sod on top of the bare patch in front of the goal closest to the school. In place of a proper goal, two flags were employed, which lent a sort of pond hockey atmosphere—you know, two snowboots eight feet apart down this end, a sneaker and a duffel bag six-and-a-half feet apart at the other.

The Masco coach, who showed up with 11 players, one of them in running shoes and a knee brace on the sideline, inserted herself between the goal flags for the second half and actually did quite well. She allowed a couple of Lindsay Bruno goals (who doesn't these days?) despite being at least a few years past her own high school glory days.

Mark DiGiovanni, the sweeper back who co-captained the WHS boys' team to the EMass Final last spring, did a reputable job in his summer casual attire as the game's lone official. But, like many of the athletes in the game, he had his mind on other things: he'll head off to Babson College later this month to broaden his academic and soccer horizons.

Masco scored early between the sticks and, while there were no "Too high, too high" controversies, did appear to bisect the flags shortly thereafter, though it was hard to tell.

The hard work of WHS seniors-in-waiting, Bruno, Kristen Kacamburas and Lauren McCarthy, meanwhile, paid off some 10 minutes later down the other end, with the hustle of Kacamburas ultimately resulting in an equalizing goal. But Masco pushed through a couple more before the teams traded ends for the second half, which was mostly played on Wilmington's side.

Bruno scored one early and another late, though as if to prove a point for later, Masco, which handily defeated Wilmington in their most recent official varsity meeting, added a final goal just before the final whistle.

These games are not in the least indicative of how things will play out on the full length, cooler fields of fall, where, while Wilmington may yet run into a Masco Fiasco or two, they certainly should hold their own.

Summer coach Alfonso DiSimone has had to deal with rosters numbering as high as 35 girls and has played everyone equally, despite apparent varying degrees of interest. One positive effect in the long run will be the high school-caliber experience many of the younger girls have obtained this summer. The prospect of the arriving younger athletes has not been lost on Bruno, for one.

The senior forward and all-time leading scorer for WHS girls' soccer plays high-speed, high-intensity soccer no matter what the situation and last Thursday was no exception. She bumped and bruised and hustled her way to her two goals, even with her team down five or more goals. She's looking forward to bringing what she has to a team with 12 other seniors, a tournament team that lost two starters and is welcoming a raft of new talent.

"I think this year will definitely be a good one," she said. "With the newcomers I'm definitely excited. There are a lot of young kids who have never played high school soccer before. They have potential just no experience."

Which is why this summer soccer season, despite its casual appearance at times, is so important.

"We just do this as a workout," said Kacamburas. "We work with each other and the younger girls. We have a lot of seniors too. I think we should do really good this fall."

A workout was just what the sports doctor ordered for McCarthy, who after months of softball is gearing up for WHS varsity double sessions under coach Sue Hendee.

"I am so not ready for soccer right now," said McCarthy while taking a breather from the action.

Come September, thanks to the dog days of July and August, she and her WHS teammates will be.

Local catches 30-pounder

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

When 14-year-old Ronald Smith, Jr. of Tewksbury, caught a 30-pound, 42-inch striped fish, he was offered $150 for it. Instead of taking the cash, he settled for the $20 pool prize, bragging rights and dinner for several weeks.

"Oh yeah he was good," said Smith, a junior high student, who caught his first ever fish off the Plymouth Charter recently while on Captain John's Charter Boat in just his second time deep sea fishing. "We didn't eat all of him yet, I think we still have like six fillets left." Smith said he used clams for bait and he let it sit on the bottom, before the striper tugged on it. There, Smith said, it took him about ten minutes to pull him in.

"Yeah I did it by myself, the guy set the drag for me, but gave me the rod back. I was really surprised how big he was."

It was then that several of the other fishermen on the boat offered the youngster $150, but he turned it down.

"I wanted to come home and show my father and everyone," he said.

The Tewksbury girls softball under 12 travel team participated in the Westboro Invitational Tournament on the weekend of July 24. The team capped off a perfect undefeated (6-0) weekend with an exciting 9-8 come from behind win over Wrentham in the championship game.

Tewksbury 12 Worcester 1
Liz Mucica was dominant on the mound pitching a no-hitter, collecting 12 strikeouts. Kristine Elwell made a nice play at third base.

Offensively Michelle Coppi led the way with three hits. Kristin Smolinsky had two hits; Sarah Boudreau and Alicia Rocco had a hit apiece.

Tewksbury 7 Shrewsbury 2
Julie Carlino struck out 19 of the 21 batters she faced and Danielle Delponte was solid behind the plate in this win.

Offensively Sarah Boudreau and Danielle Delponte had two hits apiece, Julie Carlino, Liz Mucica, Alex Sacco, Alicia Rocco and Lindsey Marsh all had hits.

Tewksbury 9 Oxford 8
Kristen Smolinsky and Liz Mucica both pitched well in this high scoring game. Kristine Elwell, Alicia Rocco, Meredith Hill and Dina Ferriero all played well in the field.

Offensively Kristen Smolinsky led the attack with three hits. Alicia Rocco, Dina Ferriero, Michelle Coppi and Ashley Riccardi all had hits.

Tewksbury 2 Oxford 1
Julie Carlino pitched a one hitter while striking out nine. Excellent team defense was played by the infield of Liz Mucica, Alicia Rocco, Kristine Elwell, Dina Ferriero and Danielle Delponte.

Offensively Danielle Delponte had a double and Liz Mucica had a clutch two out single to give Tewksbury the lead.

Tewksbury 2 Grafton 1
Liz Mucica pitched a gem striking out nine. The outfield of Sarah Boudreau, Alex Sacco and Dina Ferriero made several nice catches.

Offensively Julie Carlino and Sarah Boudreau had two hits apiece. Lindsey Marsh and Amanda Fogaren each had a hit.

Championship game
Tewksbury 9 Wrentham 8
After falling behind 8-1 at the end of two innings, the Tewksbury girls never gave up and battled back with three runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to win the game in dramatic fashion. The highlight of the inning was a two out base hit by Danielle Delponte which scored Ashley Riccardi to win the game. The win was a total team effort.

Julie Carlino came in to pitch in a relief role and shut the door for the final five innings striking out nine Wrentham batters. Kristine Elwell made a nice play at third base. Dina Ferriero was solid in right field and Alicia Rocco made several nice plays at second base.

Offensively Michelle Coppi, Danielle Delponte, Sarah Boudreau, Kristine Elwell, Alex Sacco and Dina Ferriero all had hits. The last inning rally was started by Lindsey Marsh, Ashley Riccardi and Michelle Coppi with Riccardi scoring the winning run.

The coaches, Lisa Fogaren, Bill Mucica, Paul Riccardi, Jim Coppi

and Bobby Hill would like to thank all the parents for their support and contributions during the weekend; it was very much appreciated.

The team also competed and played very well in the following tournaments this summer: Lowell, Chelmsford, Mass. State "A," 12 and under National Qualifier and New England Regionals.

Bay State team takes home Gold

Wilmington rallied for two runs in the sixth inning to knock off top seeded Reading 4-3 and win the gold medal in round two of Division B at the Bay State Baseball Tournament of Champions in Framingham on Sunday. Wilmington is sponsored by Textron Systems.

The win avenged a loss Reading two weeks earlier when the teams met in the first round championship game. This time Wilmington played flawless defense in support of Sean Murphy who pitched a complete game for the win against a lineup full of excellent hitters. The two rivals have split four tournament games.

With Wilmington trailing 3-2 in the top of the sixth, Steve Peterson ignited the winning rally by bunting for a single and taking third on a throwing error. Jeremy Schuh's infield hit failed to score Peterson, but Dave Rizzo drove in Peterson with a grounder to first. Alex Montalto then lined a single to right center, bringing Schuh home with the winning run.

Reading managed to load the bases with no outs in the bottom of the sixth but the Wilmington defense stiffened. Third baseman Rizzo threw out the lead runner at the plate, Schuh snared a line drive at first, and Peterson ran down a fly ball to deep right center to end it.

Murphy spread out eight hits over six innings and never let Reading get a big rally going. The big lefty had three strikeouts and no walks, pitching valiantly in sweltering heat. He stranded runners in four of six innings.

Wilmington's championship effort was truly a team effort in a hard fought game. Jeff Youngclaus had two singles and scored a run; Matt Hogg had a double and a RBI; Tom Miele drove in a run with a single and Mike Frissore had a single.

Wilmington is guaranteed a spot in the Bay State Tournament of Champions later this month and the team has accepted an invitation to the third round of the tournament. Wilmington's Bay State record stands at 13-3 overall.

The semifinal game on Saturday also featured a rematch from round one as Wilmington again defeated East Cambridge, this time 10-2. Steve Peterson who shut down East Cambridge two weeks ago, pitched another outstanding game. He had four strikeouts and gave up exactly two runs once again.

But Wilmington gave Peterson a bit more breathing room in this game. Youngclaus got things rolling in the second inning with a two run triple down the right field line as Wilmington jumped to a 4-1 lead.

In the fifth inning, Zach Mayo, Rizzo, and Murphy each drove in a run to spark a five run rally and put the game away. Mayo, Peterson, and Miele each finished with two hits.

Wilmington split a pair of games with second round runner-up Sudbury last week. Sudbury won the first game 7-5 as Wilmington struggled at home in its only poor performance of the tournament.

Wilmington uncharacteristically committed seven errors and only got five hits. Behind 6-0 in the fifth, Wilmington charged back with five runs over the final two innings but ultimately stranded four runners as two rallies fell short. Murphy and Schuh had RBI's, and Dave Griffin and Mayo had base hits.

The five runs turned out to be important. Wilmington won the second game 7-4 at Sudbury and thus won the second round by virtue of a tie breaker on runs scored in head-to-head competition.

Miele paced Wilmington with a double and three RBI's, and Hogg added two hits and an RBI. Schuh and Youngclaus made several fine putouts and assists to anchor the defense. Peterson and Hogg each pitched three solid innings.

Scott Memorial golf tourney a success

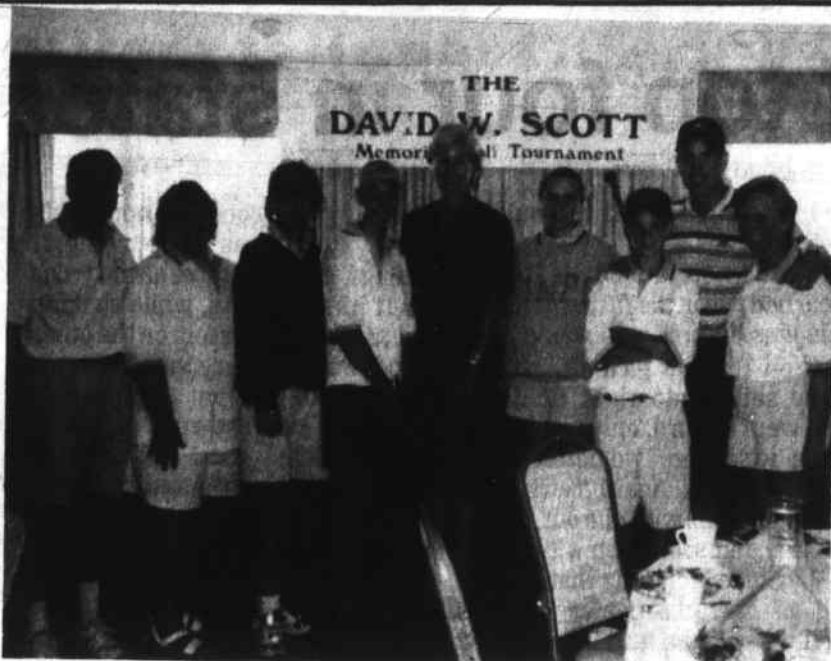

The David W. Scott Memorial Golf Tournament was held for the second year at the beautiful Indian Ridge Country Club in Andover, Monday July 26, 1999. Over 148 golfers turned out for a great day of golf, excellent food, fun and fundraising to raise college scholarship money for deserving Tewksbury residents in Dave's memory.

A lifelong Tewksbury resident, Dave Scott was known throughout the Merrimack Valley and beyond as a great family man, sportsman, and supporter of academic and athletic programs for children.

Among the golfers playing was National Hockey League Captain Tom Fitzgerald of the Nashville Predators. Prior to starting the golf round all players had an opportunity to loosen up with coffee and pastries and a few wacks at the complimentary driving range and putting green. Indian Ridge Golf professionals and local favorites Joe Miller and Dave Lane had the course in outstanding shape so all that was needed was for Madge Broderick to kick off the 7 a.m. shotgun start with her best rendition of our National Anthem.

The course played particularly tough throughout the day and this resulted in some close scoring in the end. The A Flight winners led by Team Captain Don MacLaren included Dan Donovan (also the putting contest winner with a drop of $5), Keith Bourgeois and Steve Bourgeois (who no doubt brought stability to this group) came in at 10 under to capture first.

Second place, at nine under, went to Tim McManus, Peter Regan, Bob Morgan and Joe Green.

Third place, also at nine under went to Jay Hart, Brian O'Donovan, Mike O'Donovan and Gene Kee.

In B Flight, Captain Vin Tamburello and his group comprised of John Roach, Jim Haugh and Kevin Sullivan came in number one at minus five, followed by second place winners John Cullen, Ed Dolan, Mike O'Brien and Bob Mullis at minus five. Third place winners, also at minus five were Bob O'Leary, Dan Flaherty, Bob Perham, and Tad Dyzimian.

Both the A and B flight first place finishers will have their names placed on the Memorial Trophy, while the first, second and third place winners of both flights received brass key chains and gift certificates to the Indian Ridge Golf Shop.

Also being honored and a popular foursome among the crowd were Jack Tremblay, Ned Hickson, Dan Mastercoras and Eileen Hill for lack of a better word their "spirited play." This group even received their own trophies. Why was half the horse missing on the trophy? Closest to the pin winners were Lenny Riley on number two, Scott Fitzgerald on number seven, Paul Kelly on number 13 and Ralph DeVito on number 16.

Winning the longest drive on number one with a bomb was Dan Hickey. Hats off to the Indian Ridge chef and staff for a terrific meal. The day concluded with a super silent auction and raffle. Among some of the items were autographed boxing trunks by Muhammed Ali, a baseball signed this year at the All Star game by Ted Williams and two premium seats for the opening show of Bruce Springsteen at the Fleet Center.

The Scott family would like to send heart felt thanks to the following committee members:

Helen Bastien, John Barry Steve and Marie Bourgeois Jim and Madge Broderick Jim and Barbara Duffy Mike and Cindy Ferrick Vinny and Bunny Fratalia Charlie Gianturco Dick and Mary Holland Gene Kee and Ellen Kee Donny and Linda MacLaren Bobby and Brenda O'Brien Gina Patten, Bob Salamone Tom and Kelly Verrill

Words cannot express the gratitude felt by the Scott Family to the many, many hole sponsors, raffle prize and silent auction donors whose generosity made this day possible and who are listed below. Finally the Scott Family would like to once again congratulate and wish the very best to the David W. Scott Memorial Scholarship Honor.

13-year-olds finish as one of top four in state

Fall to Swampscott, 7-2

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

In the end they finished as one of the best four teams in the state. That was an accomplishment maybe that didn't want to hear, but for the 13-year-old National All-Star team, it's just that, an impressive accomplishment.

After a nearly three hour game that included an 45-minute delay with a collision at first base eluding to the ambulance coming and the Swampscott head coach calling Bristol, Connecticut, the home of Little League, for a ruling, the Nationals squad just didn't have it last Wednesday night in the State Semi-Final game played at Bowser Field in Lynn.

The 10 walks and 6 errors Tewksbury gave up was very imminent that it wasn't their day, and it was totally uncharacteristic of Tom Boyle's team who went down to Swampscott, 7-2. But in the small picture was a kid pitching on three days rest, and a team who certainly made the summer days enjoyable with their all-star play over the last few weeks.

"I think we made three errors in the previous (six wins)," said Boyle. "(Wednesday) just wasn't our night. We a lot of fortunate things happen to us, a lot of good games and good innings, but tonight we couldn't get it done."

Both teams were held scoreless in the first inning, and Swampscott scored a run on a passed ball in the top of the second to take a 1-0 lead.

the ground. Shelzi took off from third and scored easily, but Gilardi retrieved the ball and fired to first base. Keohane running the down the right side of the line, approached first, when their first baseman, Tom Burke, made the stretch to catch a wild throw going to his left. Boyle stayed on the bag and tried to make the catch and Keohane saw the throw was wild, put his head down to avoid being hit by the ball, and simultaneously collided with Burke with Keohane's head and shoulder going right into's Burke's rib area. With the umpire's ruling of safe, Burke fell to the ground in obvious pain. Immediately the Swampscott coach came out to argue the call saying that Keohane was in the baseline and therefore should be out.

Meanwhile throughout a good 30 minute delay with Burke never getting to his feet, the Swampscott coach argued, argued and yes argued again. The ambulance came for Burke, took him off the field in a stretcher, the game resumed and before a pitch was thrown with all of the Swampscott players on the field, its coach took them off the field so he could call Bristol, Connecticut for a ruling on what he and the first base umpire saw. Fifteen minutes later, the ruling stayed, as a committee of umpires at the home office in Bristol said it was a judgement call and a coach can not argue/protest judgement calls.

Now almost an hour later, the game resumed and Tewksbury's second inning came to a halt and the game was tied at one after two innings. Tewksbury's pitcher Mike Rocco went back on the mound and retired the side in order, while Swampscott's pitcher, Chris Kane, did the same.

In the fourth inning, Swampscott became very aggressive on the basepaths, as two runners scored, both on wild throws to left field on stolen base attempts to third, and Swampscott led 3-1. Tewksbury came right back in their home half as Ryan Corson, John Harrison and Fogaren all ripped singles to left to load the base with one out for Keohane. Keohane went after the first fastball he saw, and smoked a hard bouncer to third where Gilardi tossed to home for the first and then catcher Steve Carr completed the 5-2-3 double play getting Keohane at first, this time with no controversy.

"If Dennis didn't hit that so hard, we might be talking a brand new game," said Boyle. "A few feet to the left or right and that would've been two runs."

Swampscott added its fourth unearned run in the fifth when Eric Faia was on first, and was a dead duck on Rocco's pick-off, but the throw sailed into right field and Faia went to third, only to score on a suicide squeeze two batters later making it 4-1. Again Tewksbury fought back, as with one out, Rocco walked, and scored on a two-bagger by Steve McKenna that had the ball go over the center fielder's head, cutting the lead in half to 4-2 after five.

Rocco gave up a single to the lead-off batter in the sixth and that was it for him. The southpaw who had as great of a tournament as a player could have, went four plus innings giving up five runs, one earned on two hits, while walking six and striking out three. All of that on just three days rest. He gave way to the hard throwing Mike Bordonaro, who in his two innings struggled with his control also, walking four, while giving up one unearned run on two hits. Swampscott scored three runs in the sixth to increase its lead to 7-2, as Tewksbury only managed a walk in its last two at-bats.

In the seven games the team played, it outscored its opponents 58-20. Rocco was 2-1, pitching 21 innings, giving up three earned runs on 11 hits, 14 walks, while striking out 32 batters. Corson, on the other hand, was also very impressive as he was 3-0, pitching 15.1 innings, giving up 4 earned runs on 9 hits, while walking just 3 and striking out 14. The duo figured in all six victories, combining to pitch 36.1 innings, giving up just 7 earned runs on 20 hits, 17 walks and striking out 46. They combined for a 1.35 earned run average.

Tewksbury T-Ball

Royals ways of learning keeps them on top

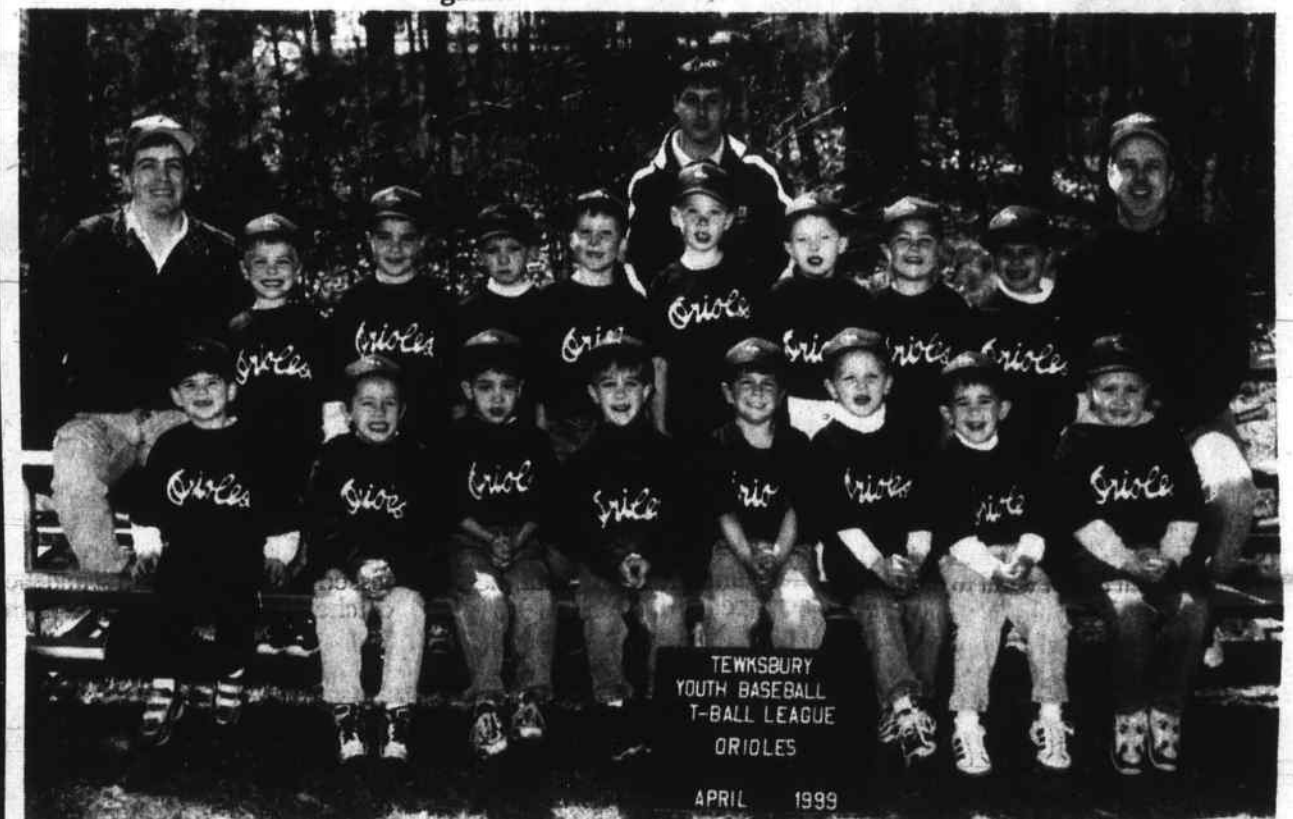

The Teeball Royals are made up of different types of players. One group consists of Robert Bolton, Ryan Targee, Damian Sabatino and Ian Flynn all good players willing to learn. They seem very much like the Energizer Bunny; they just keep going.

Then there's the group of players like Dante Sabatino, Brian "Bubba" Haley, Ryan Vibber and Sean Plunkett, a few six-year-olds who really have come a long way in two years, throwing, catching and hitting.

Then there's Willie Jennings, Erin Plunkett, Ryan Crockett, Adam Duff-Marsh, Matt Hanson and Zachary Sullivan. They are one of the nicest groups - a nice quiet group. They are always listening and willing to learn. This group made strides from the first practice to the last contest, in all areas of the game.

It's a great deal of fun watching this group of players. They display a little bit of everything in a teeball game. A lot of players are trying their hardest. Youngsters hit the ball really well and make nice plays in the field. Some kids miss the ball while trying hard and yes, there are those picking daisies and playing in the dirt. All of this makes the greatest game on earth and makes the Coach Bob Haley, proud to be a part of the 1999 Teeball Royals.

Banner season for T-Ball Orioles

Nineteen ninety-nine was a banner year for the TeeBall Orioles coached by Scott Sutherland, Rich Carney and Julio Serrano.

A rookie laden team, the Orioles were buoyed by the leadership of returning veterans Kyle Young, Ross Carney and Chris Filippone. The Orioles defense was spearheaded by the outstanding play of Ricky Sheehan, Brendan O'Keefe, Sean Bender and Thomas Anderson. At the plate, the Orioles attack was paced by the timely hitting of CJ Sutherland, Nathan Whitehouse and Daniel Serrano. The power was provided by home run hitters Ryan Sheehan, Brandon O'Keefe and Matthew Brady. Joey Camilo, Bradley Gahagen, Connor Barry and Keith Bradley ran the bases with abandon and showed great hustle all year long.

LAURIE STROCK AND Bill Hees are standing ready to welcome fun-loving people into the Boston Chapter of Mensa. Hees, of Cambridge is the local secretary of Boston Mensa and Strock, of Woburn, is the membership secretary. The only requirement for membership is that you be in the top two percent of scores in any one of several Intelligence Quotient tests.

MENSA members are in top 2% of Intelligence Quotient

"We are just ordinary people"

By DOUG WOOD-BOYLE

Probably one of the most misunderstood groups of people in today's society is Mensa International.

It is not a super-secret society of people who are planning the take over of the world. To the contrary, it is a group of people that might include your neighbors that like to get together for social activities, game playing or even physical activities such as mountain climbing or bowling.

The only difference is that along the way the discussions could range from highly philosophic issues to that of science or math equations. The only requirement for membership is that a person pass one of the several approved Intelligence Quotient tests in the top two percentile.

Burlington Public Library Director Marcia Rich said, "If there were two house parties on a street and you walked into the Mensa one, you wouldn't know the difference."

"Except that someone might be discussing quarks."

Boston Mensa Local Secretary Bill Hees, of Cambridge said, "We come in all shapes and sizes. We are everyday people."

Woburn resident and Boston Mensa Membership Secretary Laurie Strock said, "You get everything. There are members who are doctors and lawyers and some are unemployed. There are members with umpteen degrees and members who never graduated high school."

"In the Boston area a lot of people are in the computer industry."

Hees notes that Mensa International is 52 years old and the Boston Chapter, with about 950 members, is a little over 30 years-old.

According to Hees, "Mensa is Latin for table. This is probably what has led to the misconception of the group being a super-secret society out to control the world or at least solve all of its problems."

Hees notes that originally it was "a round table of people who would decide all of the world's problems. That lasted about six months and then it was decided to become a social group."

The official information from the Mensa website (www.mensa.org/info.html) states that the group was formed in London, England in 1946. The original founders were Roland Berrill, a barrister, and Dr. Lance Ware, a scientist and lawyer.

The website information states, "They (Berrill and Ware) had the idea of forming a society for bright people, the only qualification for membership of which was a high IQ (intelligence quotient). The original aims were, as they are today, to create a society that is non-political and free from all racial and religious distinctions."

The website notes, "The society welcomes people from every walk of life whose IQ is in the top two percent of the population, with the objective of enjoying each other's company and participating in a wide-range of social and cultural activities."

Hees, Strock and Rich all had basically the same reason for joining Mensa: finding a social group they could relate with.

"I moved here from Long Island and didn't know too many people," Hees related. "I joined about five different things at the same time and Mensa was the only one that stuck."

He added, "People who qualify for Mensa usually find they have a lot in common with other Mensans."

The approved tests for membership qualification include the Standardized Aptitude Tests (SAT) used for college admission or, if necessary, a test given by Mensa. Several other tests are also on the list.

ANTHONY MANCONI

Insurance statistics prove that men who kiss their wives every morning before going to work, will live ten years longer than those who don't. If that is true then my new neighbor will live to be over a hundred. Only this morning, I saw him KISS his wife as he went out the door. She then walked with him to the car, he kissed her again and got in the car. He rolled down the window kissed her again and drove to where I was standing and said, "You look so surprised Chipper don't YOU do that every morning?" "Gee!" I exclaimed, "I hardly know your wife, wait until I know her better."

I remember when my Uncle John Shea went to his Eternal Rest. He got a government job in Washington, D.C.

In the old days some women asked their doctors if they could have children. TODAY some women have to ask their Landlords.

My wife Kathy is a terrible cook. She usually cooks Carrots and Peas in the same pot.

A used car dealer sold Cousin Mario a car with many options. He can choose to, Push it, Tow it, Fix it or JUNK it. Mario stepped on the brake and the steering wheel BROKE.

The E.P.A. sent Inspector Gary Hagen to find out why the Eskimo Icehouses were falling apart? Gary Reported, "I found the cause to be, Defective Igloo GLUE."

Lezar Ferragamo is a firm believer in, "Positive Thinking." He has the following taped on his refrigerator door, "As you wander down the road of life, whatever be your GOAL - Keep your eyes upon the donut and NOT upon the Hole."

Alimony is a system in which two people make a mistake and ONE of them keeps paying for it for years.

Folks, we better take FULL advantage of what MOTHER NATURE has given us before, FATHER TIME, takes it away.

The only time I'm free to open my mouth at home is when I yawn. I had to take Kathy home from a party early last night. She was so tired she could hardly keep her mouth OPEN.

My cousin Mario Russo of Brooklyn, New York graduated with high honors from the super Secret Spy School. He was on a two week leave when a super Mission arose. An Agent was sent to alert Mario of the situation. The agent asked an old-timer sitting on the front stoop of a three decker, "Sir, do you know where Mr. Russo lives?" "Which one?" he asked. "There's Russo the tailor on the first floor, Russo the shoemaker on the second floor and, Russo the Super SPY ON THE THIRD FLOOR!"

Dennis Tully was taking his girl-friend out for a ride when she asked, "would you like to see where I was VACCINATED?" Dennis nearly hit a lamp-post when he stopped and said, "Yes!" "Well," she said, "Keep going, the doctor's office is on the next corner."

Kids Fun Day in Wilmington on August 28

Camp Forty Acres of Wilmington is celebrating its 50th anniversary. Located on Andover Road, the camp is dedicated to kids, all kids, according to Rick Barry, President of the Board of Directors.

Originally dedicated to the children of Wilmington as well as hosting kids with special needs, the camp is now available to any and all youth groups. According to Barry the camp operates on donations and with whatever help the Wilmington Community Fund might be able to provide. What the camp needs now is to be updated, increasing accessibility and installing flushing toilets. Presently, latrines fulfill that need.

Cyber sleuthing in Wilmington

"Child pornography on the Internet, one of parent's darkest fears, has given way to a new brand of cyber sleuths," notes the "Wilmington Town Crier."

"Wilmington police officers Pat King, Jim White and Julie Lambert have taken to cyberspace to catch the bad guys."

"Wilmington Police have taken the initiative to help educate Wilmington about how easily child predators can prey on anyone, and how quickly they will travel to meet their victims."

"King, posing as a twelve year old girl logs into an Internet chat room looking for child pornographers as his schedule allows. On March 9th, he got lucky. He met

Speaking in glowing terms, Mr. Barry remarks just how beautiful the grounds are and that on a clear day Boston and Mount Wachusett are both visible! Along with the cabins there is a huge open air pavilion and a chapel on a hill.

St. Elizabeth's invites persons to attend its annual Kids Fun Day, Saturday, Aug. 28th. As you buy your tickets, you will be helping support Camp Forty Acres as St. E's will tithe a portion of the proceeds toward the camp. Aug. 28th from 10-2 on Wilmington Common. In case of rain, come anyway. The event will be held at the First Baptist Church right across the street.

Local access, world class

'Hotmaineguy,' later identified as Dana Doody, (no age given), of Limestone, Maine.

"During the next hour and twenty nine minutes the conversation went from casual, to what are you wearing, to have you ever had phone sex? King described the conversation as 'disgusting and twisted.' Doody allegedly sent eight pornographic images to King during the conversation, with two images clearly being of a minor."

"It is a federal offense for any person to knowingly transport or ship interstate or foreign commerce by any means including by computer any visual depiction if such visual depiction involves the use of a minor engaging in sexually explicit conduct."

"Toward the end of his conversation Doody allegedly gave King his telephone number, for the purpose of King calling him to engage in phone sex."

"Armed with this information and a printout log of the conversation, King then contacted the Maine State Police, who turned the information over to the investigative division of the U.S. Customs Service, in Bangor, Maine."

"U.S. Customs Special Agent Matt Saylor conducted an independent investigation, resulting in a search warrant issued by the U.S. District Court of Maine."

"On March 31st the U.S. Customs conducted a search of 40 Burleigh Street, Apartment 3, Limestone, Maine. The agents seized Doody's computer, monitor, printer, and scanner, as well as computer disks, documents and telephone records."

"The investigation is ongoing," said U.S. Customs Resident Agent in Charge Stephen Marx. "Inspector King provided us valuable information, which was instrumental in the investigation," Marx continued.

"Doody has not yet been charged in the case."

"This is not a fun type of work to do," King admitted. "There are a lot of sick perverted people out there," he added.

"Wilmington Police Inspector Jim White and Officer Julie Lambert provide technical assistance with the project."

"During another recent undercover operation, detectives lured a Saugus man to Wilmington to meet a young girl."

"We need to make a concerted effort to effectively educate the citizens of Wilmington about the predators that are out there. We will be working closely with the school system to develop a program for parents and students," said Wilmington Police Chief Bobby Stewart."

CATV training from Wakefield

"WCAT General Manager Robert Haigh was recently in the limelight as he addressed The Alliance for Community Media, Northeast Region, as part of a national organization of local access studios like the Wakefield Community Access Television," notes the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Representatives from cable access studios all over New England and New York came together to discuss common issues and to try and advance their own knowledge in technical and practical aspects of running an access station."

"The purpose of the convention was for the participants to create and share ideas with others."

"There are about ninety different access stations that have come to Amherst for this conference," said host Carl Pride, who is the General Manager of Amherst Community Television (ACTV). "This is a good way for access stations to see the technologies and equipment that other access stations are using to upgrade their systems."

"Many of these sessions were conducted at Amherst Community Television's own facilities while some others were held at the University of Massachusetts Campus Hotel. The Campus Hotel was where many of the vendors displayed their latest equipment.

"Volunteers, including Haigh, conducted three days of seminars for everyone to learn and share in their own cable access experiences. He gave two lectures, one on Saturday and another on Sunday."

"Haigh's first lecture was on Non-Linear Editing. This was very new to most people who attended this seminar..."

On top of the world in Burlington

"Lahey Clinic has selected David M. Barrett, M.D., a Mayo Clinic physician-administrator, as its new leader," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The announcement was made jointly by Bernard M. Gordon, chair of Lahey's Board of Trustees, and John Libertino, vice chair of the Board and CEO."

"Dr. Barrett will assume his responsibilities as Chief Executive Officer on Sept. 1, 1999."

"Dr. Barrett comes to Lahey with impressive credentials as a world-class physician and respected administrator at Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota," said Gordon, who led the nationwide search.

"He has an understanding of and a commitment to the multi-specialty group concept of practicing medicine, an operational model shared by Mayo and Lahey. In addition, he has extensive administrative experience, having served as a trustee, governor and clinical department chair," Gordon said.

"Dr. Barrett's outstanding qualifications, experience and style mesh well with Lahey Clinic's search for a leader who will continue its 75-year tradition of excellence and compassion for its patients," said Libertino.

"His leadership ability, charisma, and vision will serve Lahey well as health care faces new challenges in the next century."

"A member of Mayo Clinic staff since 1975, Dr. Barrett served on Mayo's Board of Governors from 1989 to 1996 and on its Board of Trustees from 1991 to 1997..."

Post office reopened in Tewksbury

"The U.S. Post Office reopened recently in its new location at 1751 Main St., and reviews of the new facility were good," notes the "Tewksbury Town Crier."

"The new post office is double the size (20,000 square feet), and features double the P.O. boxes (1,406) than the former post office which was located at 1788 Main St."

"Customers were impressed with the new post office, particularly because it has a larger parking lot, roomier lobby, and is more accessible than the former post office."

MENSA members

From S-1

Hees, who has been in the group for about nine years, said he was able to qualify with his SAT from 1980 which meant that he only had to score a 1250 to be in the top two percent.

Rich has been a member for five years.

"I moved here eight years ago," she said, "and I reached a point where I wanted to get out socially."

She had known about Mensa for a long time, but, like many other people, Rich did not think she would qualify.

"I finally bit the bullet and looked up the telephone number," she recalled.

After learning the criteria, and being able to document what was needed for the National Mensa she was accepted as a member.

"The variety of people is an attraction," Rich said.

"I like that there are no sign-ups for a lot of activities," she added, "you just show up."

According to Rich, other groups she belonged to required an advance payment for many of the activities and if a schedule change did not allow participation the person lost the front money.

"I tend to like the mountain climbs and the house parties," Rich said. "I'm more apt to do evening things."

One factor about the association that Rich stressed is their charity work.

"They do a lot of scholarship fundraising," she said. "They have a group for gifted children."

Strock was a member of Greater New York Mensa before moving to Woburn from New York state and has been a member for four years.

"When I moved here from New York," she said, "I had an instant social group."

"When you go anywhere in the country, you contact a local secretary (such as Hees) or a membership person and find out what is going on."

However, her original reason for joining was a little bit different. According to Strock, her older brother has been recognized as a genius since his early childhood.

Strock relates the story of the time her parents found her brother, at the time three years old, reading a story to Laurie.

The brother has been a member since he was 16 years-old and her father joined Mensa about six or seven years ago.

"It is really rare to see families like that," Strock said.

Living in the shadow of her brother, Strock said she took the test just to see how average she was and found out she also qualified to be a member.

In the Strock family, there are now two more members, 12 year-old and nine year-old cousins living in Florida.

Strock notes that many members come into the club as single people and find mates to share their lives with.

It also worked as a good networking tool for Strock. When she was looking for a new job in the area, she gave her resume to Hees who was able to help her get a position with the Waltham based Lycos Computer Programming company.

She notes that some people join the group because they think it looks good on their resume. However, Hees notes that many other people either downplay the fact they are members or even hide it.

To protect these people, Mensa does not give out the names of members without permission. It also gives information on their outings only to members of the Society.

Strock said, "There are a lot of misconceptions about the Society."

She noted that some groups get together to discuss philosophy, however, others get together to discuss sports.

"There are some groups that get together to play pool once a month," Strock said.

When asked what famous people were members of the group, Hees said the late Isaac Asimov was a member.

For more information on qualifying for Mensa contact American Mensa by telephone at 1-(800)-66Mensa or on the internet.

RTS WEEKLY TRIVIA QUESTION: During the 1970's what unusual feat did both Cesar Gutierrez and Rennie Stennett accomplish? Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•Among the players on the preseason roster for the Wesleyan University football team is BURLINGTON'S MATT SHERBURNE, a sophomore defensive back who is listed at 5'11", 205 lbs.

•Need some clues to help out with the above-mentioned trivia question? They were baseball players.

•The NORTH READING Recreation Department is sponsoring a WOMEN'S SOFTBALL NIGHT at E. Ethel Little School on Thursday nights at 6 pm through August 27. Women must be out of high school to play. A user fee of $15 is due at registration to participate. Softballs and bases will be provided for games. Players are responsible for their own bats and gloves. I the event of rain call the Recreation office at 978-664-6016 for cancellation information.

•Listed on the preseason roster for the Wesleyan University women's soccer team is WINCHESTER'S LAUREN ROSENWEIG, a freshman back.

•Two area Athletic Directors were recently presented with a pair of awards honoring their outstanding service at their respective schools.

READING HIGH'S PHIL VACCARO was presented with the Ted Damko award, annually given to the state's top athletic director with less than five years of experience.

Vaccaro, now in his fifth year at Reading, received the award at a service held on Cape Cod at the Sheraton Hyannis. Also honored that night was longtime Reading resident Frank Smith, known for his love and support of the local sports scene.

Smith took and gave away free of charge some 70,000 photographs of various Reading athletes over the last several decades, and was honored with the District B Distinguished Service Award.

Vaccaro was cited for his contributions to the MIAA, including the sportsmanship and soccer committees, for his work in last spring's successful track appeal, and for his work in the academic arena of sports. Last year, every RMHS sports team received a gold or silver award for academic achievement.

In the school newsletter, the RMHS High Flyer, Principal Frank Orlando said, "Those of us who work at the high school were not surprised by Mr. Vaccaro's selection as this year's Ted Damko recipient. He is a consummate professional who is tireless in his efforts to improve Reading athletics ... and his contribution to Reading sports in making them a model of good sportsmanship throughout our state."

In WAKEFIELD, A.D. BARRY HALEY was recently awarded with the President's Award of Merit.

Haley, who has held the Wakefield High position since 1995, was unanimously selected by the Massachusetts Secondary Schools Athletic Directors Association.

In a newsletter from that group, Haley was cited for his "Dedication to the field of athletic administration, and for significant contribution to ... student athletes."

•ANSWER TO THIS WEEK'S TRIVIA QUESTION: They both got seven hits in a game. Gutierrez went seven for seven in a 1970 extra-inning game, while playing for the Detroit Tigers, while Stennett went seven for seven in a 1975 nine-inning game while playing for the Pittsburgh Pirates. Congratulations to those that knew the answer, and look next week for another trivia question.

•DO YOU KNOW SOMETHING WE DON'T? If you have information about a local athlete that you would like to see appear in this column, please mail it to: Paul Feely, Middlesex East Sports, P.O. Box 240, Reading, Ma., 01867, or call Paul at 781-944-2200 between 7 am and 3:30 pm, Monday through Friday, or fax information at 781-942-0884.

Music, MASC and major points

School Notes

by Phyllis Nissen

Of special note in Woburn

"Resident Robert Lague, a musician and educator for more than 30 years, recently received a Lowell Mason Award from the Massachusetts Music Educators Association," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The award is named for Lowell Mason (1792-1872), who is considered the father of music education. Born in Medfield, Mason established a singing academy in Boston and by 1838, said Dr. Walter Pavasaris, coordinator of fine arts for Lexington Public Schools and chairman of the Lowell Mason Award Committee, music education had been instituted in Boston schools and then spread throughout the country."

"Pavasaris said the award recipients are selected based on their 'outstanding leadership in music education and important contributions in music and music education.'"

"Candidates for the award are nominated by their peers or colleagues and a committee made up of former Lowell Mason Award recipients reviews the nominations and letters of recommendation.

"It's a process that is taken very seriously," said Pavasaris, "and it's really an honor for someone to be nominated."

"For Lague to win the award, Pavasaris said, is a high honor indeed."

"Lague was presented with the award at a ceremony at the recent Massachusetts Music Educators Association (MMEA) conference in Danvers. He had to interrupt his duties helping to conduct the 500-member MMEA All-State Chorus, of which he is an assistant manager, to receive the award, then run back in time for the chorus' performance."

"Lague has taught music and drama for the Andover Public Schools, mostly at the high school level, for 15 years. Before that, he taught in the Lexington schools for 16 years."

"For 17 years, he has also conducted the Lexington Pops Chorus Concert, which started, he said, because parents of his school chorus group saw what fun their children were having and wanted to get in on it."

"Lague and his wife, Nancy, have four children: Michael, 29, is finishing his doctorate in paleontology; Jen, 25, is an artist; Jessica, 16, attends Woburn High School; and Juliana, 11 is a student at the Altavesta Elementary School...."

Of Tewksbury and beyond

"The TMHS Student Council is infamous for its work within the school and community," notes the "Tewksbury Town Crier."

"However, members of the Student Council go beyond the town of Tewksbury in order to develop and utilize their leadership skills. The TMHS Student Council got another one of those opportunities at the 22nd MASC State Conference."

"MASC stands for the Massachusetts Association of Student Councils. It is an organization that many schools all over the state are involved in. Tewksbury is one of them. Every year, MASC hosts a state conference in Hyannis."

"The theme of the conference was 'Leadership Knows No Boundaries.' This theme was developed upon by several workshops and general sessions. This year, two Tewksbury delegates (Senior Julie Griffin and Sophomore Kimi Papp) con-Minuteman Regional High School is now scheduling interviews for its Fall 1999 Adult Dental Assisting Program.

The class will run from 7:45 am to 2:30 pm Monday through Friday from September 8 through January 28, 2000. Cardiac survival through CPR

Each year, more than 1.6 million Americans suffer a cardiac arrest when their heart stops beating. Many will not survive. Often, these arrests occur at home, or in the presence of a friend or family member. Prompt medical assistance, including CPR, can often make the difference between life and death.

To educate the public about what they can do to help a victim of cardiac arrest, Hallmark Health and the Cardiac Survival Project offer the Adult Heart Saver Course. The next session will be held on Monday, August 16, 7:00-9:00 p.m., in the B-level Conference Room at Hallmark Health/Whidden Memorial Hospital, 103 Garland Street, Everett. The cost is $10 per person.

Promptly administered CPR can help victims of cardiac arrest survive and ultimately return to productive lives.

Without CPR, the body's blood supply cannot circulate oxygen to the brain and other organs, eventually resulting in brain damage and death. Getting specialized medical care for victims, starting with CPR, is crucial to saving lives.

CPR is simple to learn; there are no tests to take or previous medical training needed. Program participants learn how the heart functions, how to call for help, and techniques for CPR and the Heimlich Maneuver. Practicing with a trained instructor allows participants to be sure they understand the training at every step.

The Cardiac Survival Project is led by Hallmark Health in conjunction with local police, firefighters, ambulance services, the American Red Cross, American Heart Association, Northeast Emergency Medical Services, and other community resources. The Project has trained more than 11,000 area residents in CPR since 1996.

It only takes two hours to learn how to save a life. Registration is required to attend the course. For more information or to register, please call the Cardiac Survival Project at (781) 979-3878.

Health & FITNESS

Milk does matter for mothers-to-be

As the 20th century comes to a close and we prepare for the new millennium, the question on everyone's mind is not "Will there be a Y2K breakdown?" but "Who will have the millennium baby?" The talk of the town around April 9, 1999 was how many couples would be lucky enough to conceive a child due on January 1, 2000. Now, many couples know if they are in the running to be the parents of the first millennium baby. It's time for mothers-to-be to take care of themselves and their babies, to ensure a healthy pregnancy and delivery.

A first important step is a visit to an obstetrician to get pre-natal care that's right for the individual expectant mother. Generally, pregnant women need to eat a well-balanced diet including fruits, vegetables, meat or alternate, whole grain bread and cereal, and of course, dairy products such as nutrient-packed milk and cheese. Health professionals also recommend that pregnant women avoid alcohol and too much caffeine. In addition, women who are expecting should exercise regularly, get plenty of sleep, stop smoking, and abstain from taking over-the-counter drugs or medication without a physician's guidance.

New England Dairy & Food Council reminds pregnant women of the particular importance of drinking milk. Recent research shows that calcium, magnesium (two nutrients found in milk) and zinc may help lower the risk for premature birth and low birth weight for baby, as well as pregnancy-induced hypertension in mom.

Calcium also plays an important role in nerve function, muscles contraction, blood clotting, and fetal growth and development. Babies need calcium the most in the last trimester when bones are hardening. The other nutrients in milk aid everything from the development of cells to growth of tissues.

According to the National Academy of Sciences, pregnant women ages 19 to 50 need at least 1,000 mg of calcium each day, which translates into at least three servings of milk, cheese or yogurt. Women expecting multiple births need to add a serving (300 mg) for each additional baby.

Got Cravings?
Moms-to-be never know what to expect when they're expecting-particularly when it comes to food cravings. Regardless of these cravings, however, expectant women need to eat healthfully. It may take some planning but there are many easy ways to get 3 servings of milk every day and still cater to those finicky taste buds. For example, here is a list of tips that will help keep milk on the menu:

- Craving chocolate? Try lowfat chocolate milk for a quick treat or whip up a lowfat chocolate milk shake with raspberries (or a favorite fruit) and frozen yogurt.

- Cheese Please. Wake up a favorite vegetable or baked potato by topping it with shredded cheese.

- Relax! Kick up those heels with a warm cup of milk at bedtime. Stir in a teaspoon of vanilla or almond flavoring to add some spark to the beverage.

- Milk "Mocktails." When out with family or friends, order milk "on-the-rocks."

- Spike some Soup. Make cream soups really simmer by substituting milk for water.

next spring. Unique varieties include: the Fusilier Bouquet scarlet tulip and the yellow star shaped Tulipa Tarda, both dwarf tulips; the Obdam narcissus with huge gardenia like white blossoms; and the late blooming Yellow Cheerfulness with double rose like blooms. All the old favorites are available as well as several elegant combinations of bulbs for mass plantings. We have many small bulbs such as Crocus, Grape Hyacinths and an interesting selection of Iris: dwarf, intermediate, tall and two reblooming varieties. Popular azaleas and rhododendron from Weston Nursery are available. The groundcovers include Myrtle and Pachysandra which can help stabilize steep areas while providing evergreen color and spring blossoms.

WEDNESDAY/THURSDAY, AUGUST 4,5 1999

It's our 4th annual

The Fourth Annual Middlesex East Summer Photo Contest is now underway and readers are encouraged to submit their favorite photo or photos to win up to $100 in prizes and a chance to maybe have your photo published.

The rules are pretty simple and there is a wide open list of possibilities for photos. Your favorite beach scene is obvious, but it may be a shot in your garden or someone working on the lawn or maybe in a lounge chair at the beach. Anything to do with summer will qualify. How about your favorite classic convertible or a nice gooey ice cream that your grandchild is wearing. They're all great and our readers love to see them.

There are two major categories, one for general photos and a second for juniors 18 and under. No professional photographers please.

There will be a first, second and third place prize in the overall category and one overall winner in the junior category.

We will accept color or black and white photos and will make every effort to allow you to pick-up your photo at a convenient location at the end of the contest. We reserve the right to publish your photo once submitted.

We also ask that you clearly mark the photos on the back stating your name, phone number, address, the name of the persons or things in photos and where the photo was taken. Pretty simple!

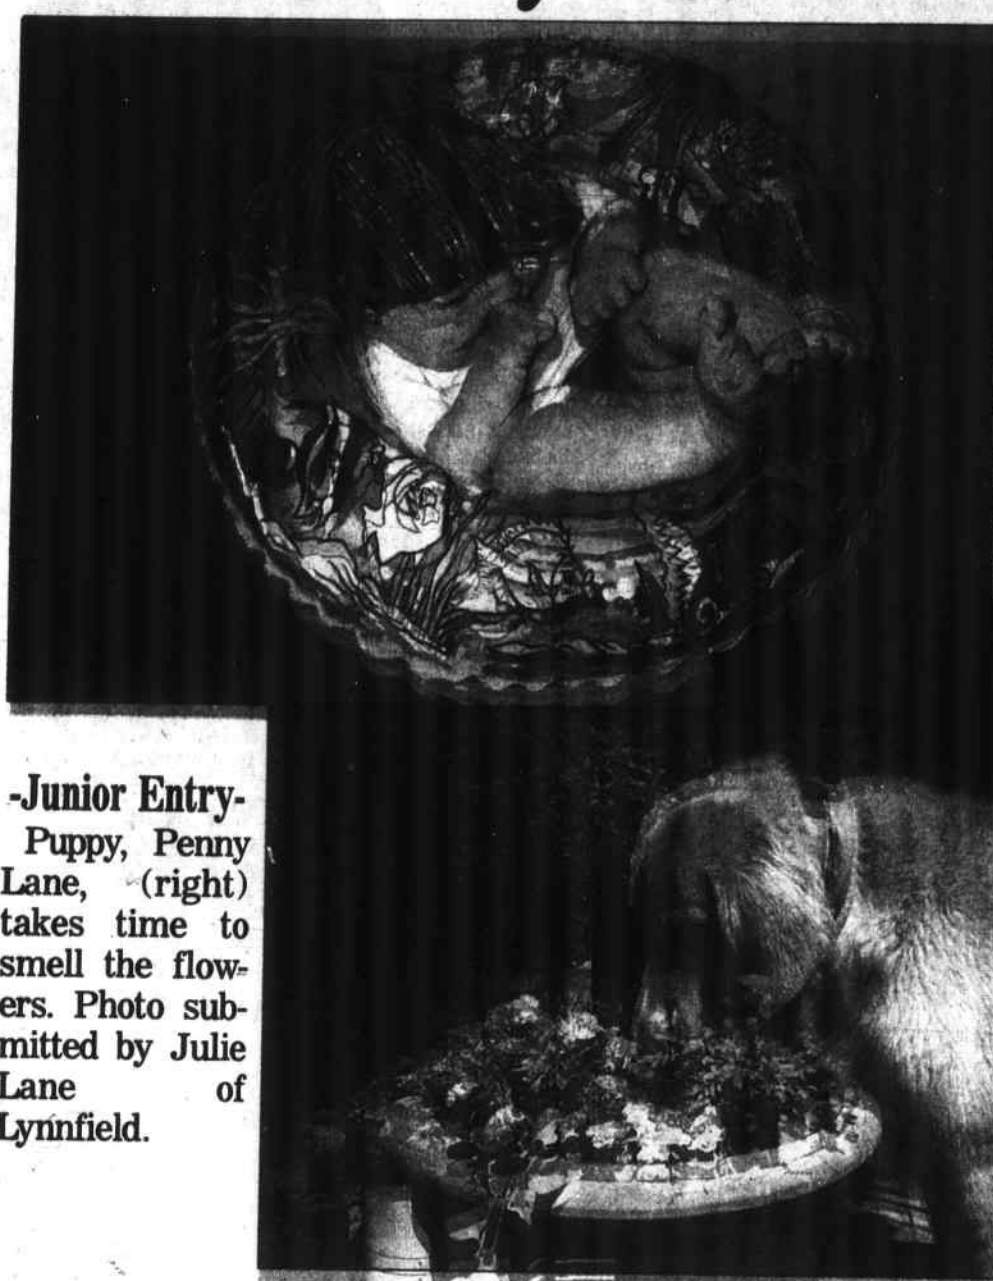

There is an advertisement elsewhere in today's paper spelling out the details in full.

So, dig out those photos, select your favorite or favorites and enter today, you've got nothing to lose and maybe you'll even win a prize. We love to see your photos and in our last contest we had a great variety and volume of photos and are looking forward to a similar number this time.

Neulist, Kirimi Papp. Also attending was the ever-dedicated advisor, Mrs. Dolly Sullivan."

In Lynnfield and elsewhere

"Three local schools have joined with thousands of schools across the country to earn free technology through the A+America Free Technology for Schools Program," notes the "Lynnfield Villager."

"Each school earns 'A+Points' which they redeem for free computers and software for their classrooms."

"Lynnfield Middle School has earned 104,371 A+Points, Summer Street Elementary School has earned 23,175 points and Huckleberry Hill Elementary School has accumulated 869,701 points."

"Just 20,000 A+Points is enough for a new educational software package and 149,000 A+Points will earn a school a new color printer. Schools can earn complete multimedia computers for as few as 900,000 A+Points."

"The five-year old program is a partnership between schools, A+America and dozens of supportive companies. School supporters simply save receipts and UPC symbols from participating sponsors and turn them into the schools. Once the schools turn the receipts in to A+America, they earn A+Points which can be redeemed for any of thousands of educational technology items. A+America schools have already earned more than one million dollars of free technology."

"Key sponsors of the program include Duracell, Sprint Long Distance, The Chadwick's of Boston catalog, Bob's stores, Pep Boys, the Big Party, Stoneyfield Farm Yogurt, the Lillian Vernon catalog, the Men's Wearhouse, Shoemart at Kmart and Hood Dairy. All A+America sponsors donate a percentage of their sales to help these local schools."

"School supporters who wish to help these local schools should save their receipts and UPCs and turn them in to the school."

REAL ESTATE SAMPLER

This Week...
Stoneham

A home with Grace and Character

Exit Personal Choice Realty is honored to present this week's Sampler, located in Stoneham.

The charm and style of yesteryear with the conveniences of today! This 1890 Queen Anne style Victorian has it all. It has been completely renovated starting with the spectacular four color exterior paint job (pink, cream, rose and hunter green) on a 13,780 foot professionally manicured lot!

After enjoying the breath-taking view from the street, you step onto the spacious farmer's porch, through the front door, into a quaint sun porch where you can take off your shoes before stepping onto the gleaming hardwood floor in the foyer.

From there, your eyes first focus on the original woodwork of the grand staircase. Located off the foyer is a brand new ceramic tiled half-bath and an entrance through pocket doors into the living room. The living room has a mixture of hardwood and wide pine floors.

From there you pass through another set of pocket doors into the dining room. The dining room features new built-in bookshelves, an exquisite fireplace with original tile (which has been appraised at over $5,000) and a new oak mirror.

The first floor also offers a totally refurbished eat-in frost maple, cabinet kitchen with top of the line appliances and marble tile floor eating area.

Pass through the new Anderson slider in the kitchen to the new 400 square foot pressure treated deck. The deck allows you access to the beautifully maintained and completely fenced in backyard with new driveway and one car detached garage.

The second floor boasts the master bedroom, which consists of two generous rooms with hardwood floors, his and hers closets, and plenty of natural light.

A short walk from the master bedroom is the totally renovated master bath complete with Jacuzzi tub, separate shower, marble tile and vanity sink. There is also another bedroom on the second floor with a hardwood floor, along with a half bath, which includes washer and dryer.

Up the newly carpeted steps to the spacious third floor brings you to another new ceramic tile half bath and two more newly
